Nesting boxes thoughtfully designed for their inhabitants!

THE SPARROW PARADE.

Your Sparrow Parade Nest Box is specially designed to attract House Sparrows and provide them with alternative nesting sites.

Recently, possible nesting places for this endangered species have become far fewer in number as a result of new houses being built with no eaves space allowed for birds to inhabit.

To make the best of your Sparrow Parade you should site it on your house wall below the guttering, or even on a shed wall, but wherever you put it make sure it is out of the way of potential predators, cats, etc. It is best to site it where it will not get driving rain or too much direct sun.

The House Sparrow is a gregarious and companionable bird that likes to nest in communities, so it is very likely that if you have some in the area you will have two or more of the compartments in your box occupied at the same time.

Your nest box should be looked after like any other nestbox; clean it out during the late Autumn killing all parasites with boiling water and, when dry, add a little bedding to each compartment if you like.

Try NOT to disturb the birds when they are nesting in the Spring.
